

EXPAT NEW EUROPE STOCKS

1 DECEMBER 2010

1. COMMENTS ABOUT OUR RESULTS

We are satisfied with the recent performance of the fund. On a trailing 12-month basis, the return of the fund reached a maximum of +31.3% on 19 March 2010, but declined to +6.62% on 30 November 2010. This change comes from a bad performance in August and October 2010 on the Bulgarian and foreign markets where the fund has invested, as well as from the very good results in March and April 2009. Although, last month we managed to compensate part of the drop as in November only we reached a yield of more than 5%. Our fund reached its highest value since the beginning of the public offering.

COMMENTS

The mutual fund Expat New Europe Stocks is suitable for investors who would like to have exposure to the Bulgarian and East European stock markets through collective investment strategies. In “good years”, profits could be significant. Our team decrease the risk through skillful management and diversification in times of market downturns, such as the one of the last two years. Despite the crisis, all our funds have kept their quotations very close to their starting levels of 2008, and this we consider a success. We advise our clients to invest in more than one of our funds in order to diversify risk. A big advantage of mutual funds is that the clients can deposit and take out money every day.

Note: There are about 100 funds in Bulgaria. In this chart we have selected some of the biggest and most popular funds. We have not selected only funds which could be considered favourable for our comparison.

COMMENTS

Our mutual fund Expat New Europe Stocks has achieved one of the positive returns in the market during the last 12 months: +6.62%. The fund has comparatively low risk and volatility (price movements up and down) for the following reason: part of the funds are in instruments other than stocks (bank deposits, instruments with higher-yield and repurchase agreements, etc.) – especially during periods when we expect the markets to decline. Such a strategy provides better protection during market crashes but lower the maximum possible profits as market rises. We expect the share of highly undervalued stocks to increase in the future.

COMMENTS

Our current strategy is to identify new markets and companies that we could add to the portfolio of the mutual fund Expat New Europe Stocks. November was much better than October for the capital market in Bulgaria, although the indices finished in different directions: SOFIX finished at +0.46% and BG40 – at -0.47%. For the period our fund finished with a yield of more than 5%. Last month we closed the entire positions in 3 companies – one Russian and two Bulgarian. We reduced our exposure in two local companies, which we considered overestimated. In November we opened one new exposure in one Hungarian company and made a successful arbitrage with the shares of one Turkish Exchange Traded Fund (ETF). Our deposits are with preferential interest rates (most of them are about 7.0% p.a.), which we are ready to redirect to shares which we might consider strongly undervalued. Currently, we are waiting for the right moment to invest in companies that we have identified.
